PLEASANT READING
AND AUGUSTINE'S
RELIEF FROM THE DEPRESSIONS
AND EXCITEMENTS OF THE TIME.
THE
LIFE AND LETTERS OF
WASHINGTON IRVING,
BY HIS NEPHEW,
PIERRE M. IRVING.
Two Volumes, ready on Wednesday,
WITH THREE FINE PORTRAITS.
Price, $1.50 per vol.
The same, uncut, $1.50 per vol.; Half-Calf Extra, or Antique,
$2.50. A few copies on large paper, $3.00.

* This is perhaps the most interesting and attractive publication ever written in this country. It should be had by every one.

"Turning aside from the noise of battle, and the dreary record of slaughter, it is a real delight to contemplate such a specimen of serene, peaceful, kindly life as is presented in this memoir of Washington Irving."

(New-York Express.)

"Not merely a bold biography, but a literary platenarium, in which, as around a central sun, multitudes of other planets move in their orbits and shed light in their paths."

(Boston Post.)

"No more interesting work can be presented to the American people."

"By universal consent, the history incident of the trade
this season, is the publication of the life of Irving."

"A Bonn transcript."

"Not less suggestive than intrinsically delightful."

(H. T. Tuckerman.)

"It is a book every way worthy a place beside the other works of the great author."

"A mile-long, flesh-and-blood portrait of the great pioneer of American literature."

(Saturday Evening Post.)

"New-York: G. P. PUTNAM."

* The attention of the trade is specially invited to the new and improved editions of IRVING'S WRITINGS.

Which are now ready, in various sizes and bindings, suited to all tastes, in separate volumes and in complete sets.

The great variety of prices, and the wide range of information contained in the volumes, in the pure language, render them a library for the family, for which no other series
could be a substitute.

They are now complete, in a permanent shape, which will not be excelled or superseded. Full lists of the different sizes and prices of sets, and of each work, may be had of the Publisher.

"It is seldom that it is accorded to any public man, in any department of human greatness, to accomplish such complement and perfection of life and works, as was wonched to Irving."

"He lived to enjoy a large measure of renown, as extensive as the civilized world."

(Battle Advertiser.)

THE SCHOOL-BOOK OF THE SEASON.

QUACKENBOS'S ENGLISH GRAMMAR.

This edition (23d, 236 pages, 63 cents) is instructive

in its arrangement, comprehensive in its rules and definitions, comprehensive enough for all purposes, and sufficiently simply in style for the young. It is no reproduction of old systems, but an original work, innovating where innovations are made, and giving a philosophical system. In fact, it is all that can be desired in a School-Grammar.

Specimens copies mailed post-paid to Teachers and School
Committees on receipt of 25 cents.
